"I say, Jimmy! If you don't play me to-morrow I won't speak to you! He, he, he!" Jimmy Silver kicked Reginald Muffin with considerable vigour and still more satisfaction, and went on his way. (See Chapter 2.)

FOREWORD

Over the years, the Lofts and Adley team produced various Indexes and Catalogues, including several of Charles Hamilton's schools - Greyfriars, St Jim's and Cliff House. Work had started on the other popular school Rookwood, but quite a few problems halted its progress - mainly the stories in post-war publications that proved difficult to get hold of and examine.

Eventually the project was shelved due to more important work cropping up, as well as the realisation that the years had taken their toll of the main readership of Rookwood School. Believe it or not, the last original story in the large green "Boy's Friend" was as far back as 24th April, 1926 ! True, there were numerous reprinted stories after this date in other publications, many from the creator, but even more from other writers. This enabled the enthusiasm of the school to continue to some extent, but never as big as the fields of Harry Wharton & Co. of Greyfriars and Tom Merry and Co. of St Jim's.

Unfortunately, on April 1st 1991, Derek Adley died suddenly aged only 64 which was a great shock to many, no more that myself after a highly successful partnership of 40 years. Recently, whilst mentioning the unpublished manuscript of "Rookwood", Darrell Swift at "Happy Hours" took the view that it should be published even as a memorial to Derek who had done so much in the collecting field for the benefit of readers and collectors as a whole.

Rookwood was created by Charles Hamilton at the request of the editor of the large green "Boys' Friend" - H.A. Hinton. He wanted to boost the sales on the paper, which had been lagging for some time. The pen-name 'Owen Conquest' was used and the stories were only roughly a third of the length of Greyfriars and St Jim's occupying only a couple of pages. The rest of the contents were filled by adventure, sports and other tales.

Rookwood was in a sense a more modern school than its counterparts having a Modern and Classical side. Its leader was Jimmy Silver a most likable boy who had the affectionate nickname given of Uncle James. There was an easy going philosophical streak to Jimmy Silver; placid, patient, tolerant, always giving sensible advice, extremely good tempered and invariably with a cheerful grin on his face. He was an ideal boy to have as a chum, when as a boy I loved to read the stories then being reprinted in "The Schoolboys' Own Library". It should be mentioned that Rookwood appeared in a much earlier "Magnet" story, when Bob Cherry had biked over to Hampshire and seen the Rookwood football team in action.

The school also included the three Tommies: Tommy Dodd (leader of Modern House) and his two trusted friends, Cook and Doyle. The Fistical Three, Arther Edward Lovell, George Raby and Arthur Newcombe - and masters included the head, Dr Chisholm (D.D., M.A.) Mr Bootles was master of the Classical Fourth and was later replaced by Richard Dalton a professional boxer. So enthusiastic was 'Owen Conquest' that an editor of the paper told me he used to submit six stories at a time in the early days.

Let us remember one of the finest schools in fiction, not forgetting the delightful artist, G.W. Wakefield.

W.O.G. Lofts - February, 1994.

"The Fighting Four" This was a series of abridged stories c.1915/1920

Fellows grinned and whispered, and made sly remarks intended to reach Lovell's ears. He did not heed, if he heard. His deep indignation was growing deeper and deeper. (See Chapter 7.)

GLORIOUS GRUB!

By TUBBY MUFFIN
(of Rookwood).

TELL me not, in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream;
If a pie your plate encumbers,
And there's strawberries and cream!
Life is lovely! Life is ripping!
If the tuckshop is your goal,
Don't despair! there's toast and dripping,
Saveloy and sausage-roll!
Not privation, nor starvation,
Is our destined end or way;
But to eat, with jubilation,
Glorious grub the livelong day!
In the world's broad field of battle,
In the camping-ground of Life,
Do not chew the cud, like cattle,
Eat roast mutton, with a knife!
Trust no tabloids, how'er pleasant,
Let your meals substantial be;
Dine on ducking or on pheasant,
Gobble doughnuts for your tea!
Lives of epicures remind us
We can make our lives first-rate;
And, departing, leave behind us
Not a crumb upon our plate!
Not a crumb to tell the story
Of our glorious feasts and feeds;
Of the glamour and the glory
Of our picnics in the meads.
Dull would be the world and dreary,
And I'd feel inclined to "blub"
If there were no tuckshop cheery,
Stocked and stacked with Glorious
Grub!
Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate!
Munching, crunching, gaily chewing—
Learn to leave an empty plate!
